100 EXECUTIVES LAUNCH BOY SCOUT WEEK HERE

Last Week In Kentucky

Still a big question around the state is whether or not Kentucky's general assembly will be called in session.

The latest indication that there will be a special session came after a meeting of the state sinking fund commission. The commission believes it might be necessary to put some new laws on the statute books before Kentucky can invest the money it now has lying idle in a number of banks.

State Treasurer Edward F. Seiler says the state has a large sum of money it could invest. But he adds there is some doubt if present laws will permit investment. The money is that left over from wartime surplus accumulation, money from current receipts which are now running above expenditures, and money appropriated for expenditure later.

The state's money is lying idle and not drawing any interest. A number of banks are serving as depositories for sums running as high as $700,000.

The investment problem could be worked out at either a special or regular session of the legislature, Seiler says.

Even the hotel men at Frankfort are wishing that Governor Clements would make up his official mind about whether or not he will call the legislature into session.

Operators of the hotels in Frankfort say they have been swamped with requests for reservations from legislators and lobbyists on an "if and when" basis.

Judging by requests for reservations, members of the legislature agree a session will be called. But there doesn't seem to be any agreement on when it will be called, or for how long.

One other development raised the possibility of a special session. The legislative research commission announced it will convene next Tuesday morning. And the announcement touched off speculation to the effect the commission will have final drafts of legislative proposals ready to hand over to the governor, and that Clements will issue a call for the special session that day.

From the legislature to the state's constitution. Governor Clements has named a seven-member constitution revision commission. The group will make recommendations for revision or amendment of the present constitution.

It was given power to require all state agencies to furnish it with electrical and technical aid, and to name committees to work with it. The group is expected to name committees to represent labor, business, agriculture, education and other interests.

The commission members include James W. Stites, junior, and Oldham Clark, both of Louisville. Stites was one of the leaders of the anti-constitutional convention forces in 1947 when the matter appeared on the general election ballot. And Clark was a leader of the pro-convention forces.

During the week Governor Clements also named two boards to advise the state health department. He says the boards are needed to meet requirements of federal laws granting aid to state health boards.

The boards are the mental hygiene advisory council in the department's division of mental hygiene, and the hospital advisory council in the department's division of medical hospitals and related services.

And now, here's a glance at other happenings in the state during the week just ended.

A former Raceland, Kentucky, truant officer is back home with his family, after winning probation of a 12 year prison sentence. Sherman MacBreyer was found guilty of fatally shooting Vincent See of Moorfield, West Virginia, as the climax of an argument concerning alleged relations between See and Mrs. MacBreyer.

FOUR FERRIES STILL CLOSED IN WEST KENTUCKY

FRANKFORT—Four ferries are still closed in Western Kentucky because of high waters.

The highway department this morning lists the following ferries as closed:

The Cave-In-Rock ferry on Kentucky highway 91.
The Elizabethtown ferry across the Ohio on Kentucky highway 287.
The Juka ferry across the Cumberland river on United States highway 62.

The Columbus ferry across the Mississippi river on United States highway 58.

All other roads throughout Kentucky are clear and dry this morning.

MURRAY TO PLAY SECOND GAME AT OVC TOURNAMENT

Western, Louisville, Eastern and Evansville have been seeded in that order for the first annual Ohio Valley Conference basketball tournament in Louisville this month.

The tournament will be played Friday at 8 p. m., and Saturday at 2 p. m., at the University of Louisville gymnasium.

Western will meet Tennessee Tech Thursday at 7:45 p. m., and Eastern and Murray will clash in the second game.

Friday night Louisville takes on Marshall at 7:45 p. m., and Morehead versus Evansville in the second game.

The semi-finals are scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 12:30 and 2 o'clock. The final will be Saturday at 8 p. m. following a consolation game scheduled for 7:45 p. m. Western-Dumped FRONT.

Eastern Kentucky State's Maroon cagers won their most important game of the season last Saturday night defeating Western Kentucky 42-40 on the Hilltoppers' court.

In whipping their arch rivals, Eastern Kentucky dumped Western Kentucky from the nation's quartet of undefeated squads.

For the Western Hilltoppers this loss was their first home defeat in three seasons. They had compiled a record of 31 consecutive home victories and went into the game with a 15-game win streak.

Coach Paul McBreyer, Eastern Kentucky's cage mentor, stopped the powerful Hilltoppers attack with a slow deliberate offense built around possession of the ball. In coping this important triumph, the Maroons took only 29 shots. They made 16 of these attempts for an amazing 55 per cent. Meanwhile, Western Kentucky's high scoring aggregation was held to only 11 field goals.

For Eastern, freshman forward Jim Baechtel paced the scorers with 12 points. The 6'3" frosh scrapper played a brilliant offensive and defensive game. The seven triumph included forwards other Maroons who took part in Joe Fryz and Carl Eagle; centers Chuck Mirzovich and Bobby Coleman; and guards Paul Hicks, Russell Roberts and Walter Reid.

Wednesday night Eastern established a new scoring high for the season in trouncing Kentucky Wesleyan 88-46.

Eastern Kentucky now flourishes a record of 13 wins against only 3 setbacks.

HARLAN MAN IS HELD IN ROBBERY OF $10,000

HARLAN, Kentucky—One man is being held in Harlan City jail and authorities are looking for two others in connection with a $10,000 robbery.

Smith Ball, who operates a second hand store in Harlan, reports that he was robbed yesterday of $10,000 by three Negro men who entered his store. Ball says they struck him on the head and then opened his safe.

One of the men has been arrested, but police have not made his identity known.

KENTUCKY LAKE BOAT DOCK AND RESORT MEN MEET

Boat dock and resort operators from various points on Kentucky Lake met at the TVA Division of Reservoir Properties Office in Paris over the week-end, to discuss matters of mutual interest.

Included in the discussion were measures to improve the lake, promote public use of the services, and such matters as promotion and advertising, development planning, proper service facilities, boat equipment and other ways of developing high standard services on the lake.

The 21 operators attending the meeting were: J. H. Nicholson, and Jack Jones from Clinton Park; Joseph E. Woodbridge and Joseph A. Schuler from Boat Dock; A. W. Lucas, Highway 70 Boat Dock; A. A. Burton, Perryville Boat Dock; W. L. Lamm, McKee, Truett Creek Boat Dock; A. W. Rogers, White Oak Creek Boat Dock; Rudolph J. Ross, Little Richmond Boat Dock; J. C. Alexander, Birdsong Boat Dock; C. H. Gindlinger, and Earl Woods, Irvin Cobb Rest; William H. McFarland, Bear Creek Boat Dock; William C. Nall, and Bill Hammrick, Kentucky Lake State Park; Holloway, Travis, Smith Creek Boat Dock; Thomas E. Brown and Mr. Moore, Center Ridge and Turkey Creek Boat Dock; Harold Fisher, Kentucky Dam; Zimmerman, Park; Zimmermann Brothers, Kentucky Dam Marina; and Development Association, State Park, Murray.

All other roads throughout Kentucky are clear and dry this morning.

COLLEGE STUDENT SNATCHES PURSE FOR HUNGRY WIFE

MEMPHIS, Tennessee—A 21 year old college student says he snatched a woman's purse because his wife was hungry. Bobby Wayne Doss, G. I. student at Memphis State University, is in police custody at Memphis, Tennessee on a larceny charge.

Doss says he couldn't make ends meet with his 105-dollars monthly GI income.

Doss says he and his wife wanted to get something to eat, but didn't have the money. He explained to police that his 30-dollars monthly rent, and a 40-dollar note on his automobile takes most of his 105-dollar allowance under the GI bill.

"My wife and I are just unable to make ends meet," Doss said.

The student says he didn't tell his 18 year old wife Joanne about snatching the purse. The young wife—a native of Newark, Ohio—was in their automobile when Doss snatched the purse in downtown Memphis.

Doss raced to the parked automobile with his victim, Mrs. Edna Scott, in hot pursuit. But Mrs. Scott felt as she grabbed for the automobile. Doss making a temporary getaway.

Some 30 minutes later police apprehended the couple on the strength of Mrs. Scott's description of the car. The woman's purse and 31-dollars were discovered.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the activities of the Boy Scouts of America have been recognized as a practical approach to the training of our boys for citizenship and responsibility, and whereas the leaders in Scouting and the Boy Scouts themselves are entitled to general favorable recognition and support by the general public:

I THEREFORE SET FORTH THIS PROCLAMATION: That the week of February 7 through February 12 be designated as Boy Scout Week in the City of Murray, Kentucky; that suitable programs be encouraged to celebrate the founding of the Boy Scout movement; that citizens extend special courtesy to the Scouts and their leaders; and that, on Saturday, February 12, the Scouts of the town be given the honor of personal assistance in the municipal offices of the city and its other places of business or professional activity.

GEORGE S. HART
Mayor City of Murray.

CAR STOLEN FROM BRENT OUTLAND HERE LAST NIGHT

An automobile was stolen last night on North Eighth Street from Brent Outland after thieves had tried unsuccessfully to start a car belonging to Bill Roberts, also on North Eighth.

The Outland automobile, a 1938 Chevrolet, was parked in front of the residence with the ignition keys left in the switch, according to Chief of Police Burman Parker.

The two-door 1941 Plymouth belonging to Bill Roberts had been rolled about two hundred feet away from its parking place and much of the wiring had been pulled loose by the thief who attempted to start the motor without a key. The car was safe this morning except for slight damage done to the wiring.

Police report no clues so far in the theft of Outland's car.

BURNING IRON SIGN POST IS SOLVED MYSTERY

DECATUR, Georgia—Decatur Georgia, police thought for awhile they had discovered something that defied all the laws of nature.

The department received several calls reporting that an iron signpost was burning. The officers didn't believe it, but they went to see for themselves. Sure enough, the metal post was on fire.

Lieutenant Tom Ellis blew out the flame, but could find nothing that might have caused it. He struck a match and the iron signpost burst into flame again.

Ellis was about ready to turn in his badge until workmen finally solved the problem. The pipe had been driven into the ground, near a gas main. Flames seeped up through the hollow pipe and evidently caught fire when a passer-by lighted a cigarette.

SHIP BURNING OFF ATLANTIC COAST TODAY

Three fishermen are missing off the Long Island sound area of the Atlantic Coast this morning after will be a special session came after their 75-foot fishing vessel that caught fire and burned itself out.

The fishing vessel, the Rose Marie, from Point Judith, Rhode Island, was found in flames and abandoned a few miles southeast of Block Island, just off the entrance to the sound. No one was aboard.

Two coast guard vessels are searching the ice-cold waters in the area for some trace of the three missing men.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

You can clear the fat you've saved for deep frying, if you'll bring it to the boiling point, along with one slice of apple, a slice of potato, and one-fourth cup of water. Remove the apple and potato after the brief cooking, and strain the fat.

Murray Thoroughbreds Downed 61-47 By Western

The Thoroughbreds failed to slow down a powerful Western machine Saturday night at Bowling Green as the Hilltoppers took their seventeenth game in nineteen starts by rolling over Murray 61-47.

Coach Ed Diddle's Hilltoppers currently-franked eighth in the nation, gave ample proof that they had lost none of the edge that enabled them to run 16 wins in a row before two losses to Eastern and Louisville this week.

The Toppers were pressed all the way by Murray. Coach Harlan Hodges unfolded a team that just would not quit—an outfit that was just as determined at the close of the game as it was during a hectic first half.

Western, playing a great game, led 37-32 at the end of the first half, but soon stretched it to 20 points, 54-34, early in the second half. The shooting of the Hilltoppers just after the rest period was sensational. Johnny Givens, Rip

LIVESTOCK

Hogs $4.50. Mostly steady with Friday's average, except some weakness on 150 to 210 pounds. Bulk good, and choice 180 to 220 pounds $20.50 to 21; 230 to 270 lbs $19 to 20.25; few to 20.50; 270 to 325 lbs $18 to 19; 140 to 170 lbs $19 to 20.25; 100 to 130 lbs $15 to 18.75; sows 400 lbs down $16.25 to 17.50; over 400 lbs $14.50 to 18.75; stags $12 to 14.

Cattle 6.00. calves 8.00. Steer supply unusually liberal around 120 cars on sale. Heifers and mixed butcher yearlings in moderate numbers and cows relatively light.

Around 20 per cent of total count comprised of this class. Early inquiry for steers slow and few sales, but mostly lower. Heifers and mixed yearlings slow; small locals, near steady with close of last week. Cows dull with unevenly lower bidding. Bulls drab; but near steady; good sausage bulls scarce. A few odd head to $21; good heavy beef bulls around $20. Vealers, $1 higher; good and choice $26 to 36; common and medium $21 to 25.

Sheep 1.60. Run mostly fed woolled lambs, but includes scattering of natives and few clips. Few lots good and choice woolled lambs, shippers and butchers, around steady with Friday. Market not fully established.

39th Birthday Of BSA To Be Observed By Local District

"A dollar invested in Scouting is a dollar invested in the youth of today and the leaders of tomorrow," approximately 100 executives of the Happy Valley District of the Boy Scouts, principal speaker at the kickoff breakfast which took place at the Woman's Club House at 7 o'clock.

The speaker gave high praise to the character-building merits of Scouting, which is observing its 39th birthday this week. He also lauded the program for its work in citizenship training among the youth of Calloway county, and issued an appeal for public cooperation in the financial drive which was launched today in behalf of the local organization.

Hurt was introduced to his audience of Scout leaders and executives by Harry I. Sled, chairman of the Happy Valley District, who presided over the meeting.

Sled had previously introduced Lytt Noel, field executive for the district who recognized the following local Scout leaders: Bob Moyer, Scoutmaster of Troop 45, and Everett Jones, his assistant; Harry Geibel, Scoutmaster of Troop 90; Otis Valentine, and Tom McClain, Cubmaster; Ralph Wear, former Scoutmaster of Murray; Guy Lovins, former field executive of the local district; Carrie Hendon, district commissioner; and Max Hurt, Burman Parker, George Bell, and R. M. Lamb, members of the council executive board.

Noel also commended Ed Carlton, Hugh Miller, and Taz Galloway, Scoutmasters at Kirksey, Lynn Grove, and Almo, respectively, for the progress which has been made in Scouting activities in those communities.

Immediately following the breakfast, fourteen fund soliciting teams, which had been organized for the purpose, began canvassing the city for donations to the Scout fund. The quota has been set at $1400.

In conjunction with Boy Scout Week, Troop 45 has a display in the window of Adams Shoe Store and Troop 90 has a display in the window of Corn-A-Sun, Inc. Wednesday will be "Boy Scout Day" in the city.

PREACHER ADMITS BURNING CHURCH 23 YEARS AGO

PORTSMOUTH, Virginia—A former Alabama preacher, troubled by his conscience, has confessed that he burned down a church and parsonage 23 years ago. But officers in Russell county, Alabama, are inclined to doubt the story.

65-year old Otto Franklin Barnes, who is now a Bible salesman, gave himself up in Portsmouth, Virginia. He says he set fire to the church in Girard, Alabama. Later, he says, he led a drive to raise $41,000 to rebuild the church and parsonage.

But Russell county sheriff Ralph Matthews reports that he has found no evidence to indicate that Barnes is guilty of arson. He says he has talked to a number of church members who were with Barnes at the time the fire broke out.

CIO READY FOR FOURTH-ROUND WAGE FIGHT

The CIO has called a conference in Washington next week to lay the groundwork for fourth-round pay boost demands.

The CIO director of research, Stanley Rittenberg, called for a meeting of union research chiefs. But he won't say how much the CIO will ask. The demand on industry is expected to be pretty close to that of the AF of L, which has said it feels pay boosts should be not less than five per cent this year.

Rittenberg agrees with an AF of L survey, which says substantial increases must be granted by industry to boost purchasing power and prevent mass unemployment.

ROYALL PLEASED WITH WORK OF TROOPS IN JAPAN

The civilian head of the Army likes the job of our occupation troops are doing in Japan.

Army Secretary Kenneth Royall, during a sprained ankle, visited military installations around Tokyo and Yokohama today. He praised the reconstruction that's gone on since he left Japan three years ago.

Then he held a top-level conference with Major General Paul Mueller—General McArthur's chief of staff—and other high allied occupation officials.

Take a Lesson From Nature

One of the most pathetic pictures we have seen in print for some time was published in last week's issue of a national magazine. It is a photograph of the first Negro ever admitted to a white school in the South — Edith Irby, a student at the University of Arkansas.

Pictured here, theoretically, is the ideal social condition, the dream-come-true of the soul longing for human equality, and the triumph of the black race's struggle for recognition by the whites. But we must confess that all we can see in the picture is a miserable, self-conscious Negro girl in the midst of an equally embarrassed and thoroughly unhappy group of white students.

Within a very few weeks, Nature is going to give us a much-needed lesson about social equality. Already, the red-breasted robins have made their appearance, and soon we'll be seeing the blue-jays, the mocking birds, and the sparrows returning with the Spring.

If we watch our feathered friends closely, we will see that the robins are perfectly happy, minding their own business, together, that the blue-jays have no truck with any other species, and that the mocking birds never mix with other flocks. Yet — and here is the theme of the lesson — all may live in the same yard in perfect contentment and harmony.

If birds, and all other forms of animal life, are taught by Providence to obey the laws of segregation, and thus to live in peace, is it less reasonable to assume that the same Providence teaches the races of mankind to keep themselves pure and to respect the unmistakable differences which exist among the peoples of the world? If there is no need in nature for a "civil rights" program to force robins to interbreed with mocking birds or to make sparrows associate with blue-jays, then what need is there of such a program to enforce similar violations of the instinct of segregation?

"Intolerance" is perhaps the most abused word in our vocabulary today. Common sense tells us that there are many things which should not be tolerated, and that racial miscegenation, in particular, is one of the "vices" toward which we should be definitely intolerant.

In our society, we are daily witnesses to the wages of this insistence on intermingling of colors and characteristics. In the city of Detroit, for instance, where the negro has been given the "right" to mix socially with whites, there are annually more race riots than in all the Southern cities combined. It will always be so, in proportion to how flagrantly the laws of segregation are violated.

We feel that the University of Arkansas and Edith Irby have done each other a disservice by attempting to force the pattern of nature to suit the whims of modern sociologists. The Negro girl may find the learning she is seeking, but she has lost anything at the University of Arkansas which will help her live in harmony with society. George Washington Carver, one of the greatest men the Negro race has ever produced, knew this and insisted on attending the schools and colleges of his own people.

There is no social equality in Nature; and there is harmony. We suggest that Edith Irby and the University of Arkansas both forget some of the lessons they have learned from the sociologists and take a few lessons from Nature.

BACK FROM VISIT WITH MARSHALL

AFTER MAKING A SURPRISE CALL on ailing George C. Marshall at Pinehurst, N. C., while the latter still holds the office of Secretary of State, President Truman is met by reporters on his return by plane to the capital. The Chief Executive said that there was no political or diplomatic significance to the surprise visit to Marshall. (International Soundphoto)

Sports Roundup

It's still very questionable whether Golfer Ben Hogan will recover sufficiently from Wednesday's auto crash to play again this year, or ever.

At noon physicians in El Paso, Texas, announced that the world's greatest golfer spent an uncomfortable night, also that he was in considerable pain yesterday.

Earlier, these physicians, who have been checking Hogan ever since he entered the hospital Wednesday afternoon, located a new broken bone — a dislocated right arm in Hogan's left ankle was broken in addition to the collar and pelvis bone.

They're still checking to learn whether the pint-sized Texas pro, who won more money last year than any other golfer, suffered a back injury. The physicians haven't ruled out such a possibility. And they also reveal that a bladder injury has not cleared up as hoped.

Naturally, the doctors are optimistic about Hogan's future. They described his condition today as "good." But, these same physicians point out that the final answer to the question "Will Hogan play again?" will come only when Hogan gets on the links and starts swinging.

Some big night has been thrown on the Bob Feller-all star game incident which had baseball fans hoping mid last season.

You remember, may the Cleveland pitcher suddenly and mysteriously was withdrawn from the all-star game. Other major league clubs, as well as the fans, branded Feller a spoiled, pampered star for not appearing in the game.

Well, a couple weeks after the game, Cleveland President Bill Veeck took the blame for Bob's withdrawal.

Thursday night the Cleveland manager and shortstop, Lou Boudreau, "gallingly" galloped to Feller's rescue at the annual dinner of the Boston baseball writers. Boudreau said he and he alone was responsible for Feller's all-star fadeout.

The Cleveland manager told the men who were honoring him as last year's outstanding player that he "went up to Veeck and asked him to withdraw Feller's name."

"I needed him to win the pennant," explained Boudreau. "Besides, he didn't deserve the honor of playing in the game since at that time he had lost more games than he had won."

According to Boudreau, his ace righthander took the subsequent bench-jockeying and boos from the stands "like a good fellow." In fact, Lou wanted to give him a week off but Feller said he'd stick it out.

Now let's take a quick look at other late sports items:

The Chicago Cardinals have signed one of last year's All-America linemen. He's Bill Fischer, a 250-pound guard from Notre Dame. As usual, the National League club refused to announce terms of the contract but it's understood that Fischer's salary and bonus for the two-year contract will net him about $25,000 a year.

Football Coach John Barnhill of Arkansas has taken himself out of the running for the head coaching job at Vanderbilt. Barnhill has asked Vanderbilt officials not to consider him when they get around to filling the vacancy. So far, Vanderbilt has interviewed Malcolm Laney, assistant coach at Alabama, and Bowden Wyatt, coach at the University of Wyoming.

Since its establishment January 3, 1948, up to December 31, 1947, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis had authorized more than $30,000,000 in grants and appropriations for research, education, and medical care.

TEEN-AGE GIRLS

Read This New Book—It's Yours Just For The Asking

"It's like a frank talk with an older woman," say many girls who have read Martha Johnson's new book, "Hints for Women," being mailed free to teen-agers by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The book describes the ways the 17-year-old girl should live, from the time she is born to the time she is married. It is a book that every girl should read. It is a book that every girl should read. It is a book that every girl should read.

COUPLE OBSERVES 78TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Humphrey, Missouri—an aged couple in the "show-me" state of Missouri naturally would hesitate to make the claim outright. But Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Cutsinger like to think they are the oldest married couple living in the nation.

They made their vows shortly after the war between the states ended—to be sure, 78 years ago—come next Wednesday. Those were days when deer still roamed the northern Missouri hills.

But Mrs. Liza Kingsley, one of the nine living children of the Cutsinger couple, said there won't be any unusual celebration to mark their 78th wedding anniversary.

She said, "dad felt last Sunday and he's befest now, he will be 96 in May. She also explained: "Mother is up but she is doing poorly, she was 94 this week."

Mrs. Kingsley added: "We'll have a cake and things like that for them, but I don't know whether the children will get home or not."

She said her parents credit hard work for their long lives.

ROSENBLUM TO TRADE U. S. FOR AUSTRALIA

San Francisco—Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom—probably the last person you'd expect to stray from the green pasture of America's care society—believes the grass is greener elsewhere.

The one-time light heavyweight boxing champion is going into the nightclub business in Australia. Rosenbloom said he decided to start the nightclub after he won $4 hundred dollars at an Australian race track—then learned that the government of the country down under would allow him to take out only

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE
LAURENCE came back a little later, but he was not alone. With him was a stocky young man whose face looked like that of a man in his early thirties, but whose hair was thickly streaked with gray. He had a pleasant, friendly manner, yet one felt instinctively that he could be tough should occasion require it.

Laurence performed the introductions, saying casually, "Megan, this is Bob Reynolds. He's a detective from the county police who's looking into this business."

"Hello," said Bob Reynolds, with a friendly smile and a firm, pleasant handshake. This is quite a yarn your husband's been spinning, Miss MacTavish. I'd like to talk to him if I may."

"Of course," said Megan, looking uncertainly at Laurence. "Shall I call him in here?"

"I think Amos would be more at ease if we talked to him in his own cabin. Bob, I know where he is. Megan—suppose I show Bob the way?" suggested Laurence.

"Hello," said Bob Reynolds, with a friendly smile and a firm, pleasant handshake. This is quite a yarn your husband's been spinning, Miss MacTavish. I'd like to talk to him if I may."

admitted. He stood in thought for a moment before he looked straight at her and asked quietly, "What would be your explanation for this story, Miss MacTavish? How could you account for it?"

MEGAN set her teeth hard for a moment and there was pure panic in her eyes, but before she could say anything, Bob went on quickly, "I mean, of course, that you are quite familiar with the surrounding territory—it is all strange to me. Do you know of anything that could have alarmed Amos so that he would have mistaken it for an eight-foot ghost?"

"I've been trying to think," Megan said thoughtfully. "There are some old fruit trees around that place. Pear trees in full bloom look ghostly in the dark—only it's too early for them to be blooming. I can't remember whether the trunks of any of the trees have been whitewashed lately. They are not on my land, you see, and I haven't noticed them recently."

Bob nodded, his eyes intent. "A tree trunk whitewashed half way up is a rather spooky looking thing in the dark. And I suppose there would be Spanish moss on the trees? In the moonlight, with a slight wind stirring that—" He
